

Never mind if Anna Lim is not a familiar face to you. What's important is she is familiar to the wedding scene here and that she has worked with just about every vendor, supplier or venue operator in Singapore.

Were you thinking of holding your wedding at Chijmes, Tanglin Club or the Arts House? You should feel confident that Anna has planned more weddings at these venues than she can keep count, and knows their advantages and limitations. Seven years in the business has given her such a depth of knowledge in her work that Anna can easily do two weddings on the same day.

Experience has also taught Anna to devise contingency plans. And she has been able to save the most important day for many a couple. "I can tell when something may not work. But sometimes, couples just want to adhere to their ideas. So rather than let them suffer the indignity when it doesn't work, I have Plan, B" says Anna.

Even with a growing volume of work, Anna works alone as it keeps costs low. But rest assured, Anna won't compromise her creativity... ever.
